7.12 The One Where They're Up All Night

After watching for a comet on the roof of their building, the gang goes their separate ways;

but all end up staying up all night.

Joey and Ross get stuck on the roof and spend the night trying to get down.

Rachel and Tag spend the night trying to find some important documents that were supposed to get sent earlier that day.

Phoebe is kept awake by the smoke alarm that won't die.

Monica and Chandler can't get to sleep and spend the night reading, talking, coupling(=have sex), and cleaning.

[Scene: The Building's Roof, the entire gang plus Tag are there to

Not hit the dumpster on the other side and uh, and try to avoid that-that weird brownish red stuff in the middle. So, when you get down there: you go up to the roof and you let me in.

right n. 右边/brownish adj. 呈褐色的/Dumpster is an American brand of trash receptacle(n. 容器 贮藏器), and a type of mobile garbage bin or MGB. The word Dumpster came from the Dempster-Dumpster system of mechanically(adv. 机械地) loading the contents of standardised containers onto garbage trucks(n. 垃圾车), which was patented by Dempster Brothers in the 1930s. The containers were called Dumpsters, a portmanteau(n. 混合词) of the company's name with the word dump. However, it took the Dempster Dumpmaster, the first successful front-loading garbage truck (and which used this system), to popularise the word. The word dumpster has at least two trademarks associated with it, but today it is often used as a genericized trademark Joey: Oh whoa-whoa wait a minute! I have to do it?!

Ross: Yeah! Oh yeah, you'll be fine! It-it'll be uh, just like bungee jumping. Y-know? But instead of bouncing back up you-you won't.

Bungee jumping (or bungy jumping) is the sport of jumping from a tall structure while connected to a large rubber band. The tall structure is usually a fixed object, such as a building, bridge, or crane(n. 起重机); but it is also possible to jump from a movable object, such as a hot-air-balloon(n. 热气球) or a helicopter, that has the ability to hover over one spot on the ground; fixed-wing aircraft are clearly unsuitable because they only stay aloft(v. 呆在高处) when moving rapidly forward. The intense thrill comes as much from the free-falls(n. 自由落体) as from the rebounds. When the person jumps, the cord stretches to absorb the energy of the fall, then the jumper flies upwards again as the cord snaps back(v. 迅速弹回). The jumper oscillates(v. 振荡) up and down until all the energy is used up.
