9.19 The One With Rachel's Dream

Joey needs inspiration for his love scenes on Days of our Lives, and uses his past love for Rachel as a source of motivation.

It touches Rachel and gives her something to think about.

Chandler plans a romantic weekend away, but Monica has to work.

He can't get a refund on the room, so he and Ross go there to spend the weekend, and try to take enough hotel amenities to make the money back. Phoebe, hearing that Monica has guests standing in line outside her restaurant, decides to play her music there.

This stresses their relationship a bit more than either can bear.

Ross gets sugar highs from maple candy.

Chandler: USA Today

USA Today is a national American daily newspaper published by the Gannett Company. It was founded by Allen 'Al' Neuharth. The paper has the widest circulation of any newspaper in the United States (averaging over 2.25 million copies every weekday), and among English-language broadsheets[n. 大幅单(或双)面印刷品], it comes second world-wide, behind only the 2.6 million daily paid copies of The Times of India. Its circulation figures are a matter of some dispute, however, as USA Today has many contracts ensuring distribution in hotels, often to customers unaware they are paying for the newspaper. USA Today is distributed in all 50 states. USA Today was founded in 1982 with the goal of providing a national newspaper in the U.S. market, where generally only a single local newspaper was available. Colorful and bold, with many large diagrams(n. 图表), charts, and photographs, it contrasted with the relatively colorless papers of the time such as The Wall Street Journal and The New York Times. Emphasizing its national focus, USA Today became well-known for its national polls on public sentiment(n. 观点). Early on(adv. 在早期), the initial success of the paper was met with criticism. Many people were hesitant to read a color newspaper and derided(vt. 嘲笑) it as 'McPaper.' However, the newspaper has striven to set itself apart in distribution methods as well. The paper is still sold in unique newspaper vending machines with curved edges that some say resemble television sets more than newspaper racks. USA Today was also eager to latch(vt. 占有) onto the business traveler and was heavily distributed through airlines, airports, and hotels in addition to other sales outlets. The newspaper was also among the first newspapers to use satellite transmissions to send the final edition of the newspaper to multiple locations across the country for printing and final distribution in those regional markets. The innovation of using satellites and regional printing hubs allowed the paper to push back deadlines and include the most recent news and sports scores in each edition. In 2001, the newspaper moved into its new 30 acre (120,000 m²) headquarters in McLean, Virginia, a Washington, D.C. suburb. Its original headquarters, the old USA Today and Gannett, Inc. "silver towers", are located in the neighborhood of Rosslyn and are a major landmark on the Washington skyline(n. 地平线). On September 7, 2004, the newsstand(n. 报摊) price of a USA Today newspaper was increased from 50 cents (the paper's price since 1985) to 75 cents.

Ross: Oh, that's not cool.

Chandler: Dude, none of this is cool.

Ross: Look, Chandler, you have to find the line between stealing and taking what the hotel owes you. For example: hair drier, no, no, no, but shampoo and conditioners, yes, yes, yes. (pause) Now, the salt shaker is off-limits, but the salt (he opens the salt shaker and pours the salt into his hand) I wish I'd thought this through.

Chandler: Thank you, thank you very much!

Chandler: No!

[Scene: Central Perk. Monica and Rachel are sitting on the sofa]

Rachel: Can I ask you a question?

Monica: Yeah.

Rachel: Have you ever had any weird romantic dreams?

Monica: Let me think. Oh, when I was younger I used to dream that I got married to Mayor McCheese, and on our wedding night I ate his head.

McDonaldland is a fictional place that was used in marketing for McDonald's. It was a fictional city (as it had a mayor), where Ronald McDonald and all of his friends live. As well as being used in advertising, the characters were used as the basis for equipment in the playgrounds attached to some McDonald's.

Mayor McCheese has an enormous cheeseburger for a head, and sports a top hat, a diplomat's sash(n. 饰带), and a pair of pince-nez(n. 夹鼻眼镜) spectacles(n. 眼镜). He is portrayed as a giggly(adj. 傻笑的), bumbling(adj. 装模作样的), somewhat incompetent mayor with a wavering, high-pitched voice that is reminiscent (adj. 回忆往事的) to that of comic actor Ed Wynn. The character was dropped during the streamlining of the characters in the '80s.

Rachel: Ok, well this is like that... in no way. I had a... I had a dream last night that I wanted to kiss Joey.

in no way adv. 决不

Monica: Wow, do you mean like kiss him-kiss him?

Rachel: Oh yeah! I mean, that was pretty intense.

intense adj. 热情的 热切的[eg: The candidate has many intense supporters]

Monica: What do you think brought that on?

Rachel: I don't know! I mean, maybe that's something to do with the fact that I saw him do a love scene yesterday.

Monica: A love scene? With who?

Rachel: Olivia.

Monica: Olivia? I thought she was marrying Connor! (pause) Oh right, real life more important.

Rachel: So do you think that my dream means anything?

Monica: I don't know. I mean, you saw him do a love scene, so maybe you don't have a thing for Joey, maybe you have a thing for Drake.

Rachel: Ah! Well it was Joey reading Drake's lines in the dream...

Monica: Of course it was! Trust me, when it comes to psychology I know what I'm talking about. I took two psych classes in college.

psych class n. 心理学课

Rachel: You took the same class twice.

Monica: It was hard!

(Phoebe comes in)

Phoebe: Hey!

Rachel and Monica: Hi.

Phoebe: Here, Monica, look what I got to wear when I play at the restaurant (she dons a top hat) uh, huh wait! (she raises a pair of spectacles to her eyes) Right? I mean, this might even class up the ballad of the uncircumcised man.

Phoebe: Oh, ok. Fine, I'll just, I'll take the hat back (she puts the hat in a bag and she crushes it angrily on the floor with her foot).
(silence)

Rachel: Hey, so you guys, the funniest thing happened, at work...

Phoebe: My songs aren't good enough for your restaurant?

Rachel: Ok, we're still on that.

Monica: I didn't say your songs were not good enough.

Phoebe: Then what's wrong with them? Would they not go with your tiny portions of pretentious food?

Phoebe: I'm sorry too... (they hug)

Monica: ooohh... hey! Wanna stick around and I'll whip you up some dinner?

stick around v. (在某地)再呆一会儿/whip up: prepare or cook quickly or hastily 常跟 quickly 连在一起用 °Whip up 可能来自西厨里常见的备菜方式 °西厨艺里常见把鸡蛋等东西放在器皿里→快速搅匀→的备菜方法 °有快手快脚 °轻而易举地搞定等意思 °把 Whip up 动词→形象化→了 °这是我自己的猜测而已 °whip up 很接近中文中炮制的意思 °

Phoebe: Yeah! As long as it's free! Food here is ridiculously over-p...

(Monica seems to take it amiss)

take amiss v. 曲解

Phoebe: (smiling, raising her hand) Who's hoping the hand raising thing is still cute enough that you won't hate me?

[Scene: Joey and Rachel's apartment, Rachel walks in]

Rachel: Hey!

Joey: Hey!

Rachel: Joey, do you have peanut butter on the back of your head?

peanut butter n. 花生酱

Joey: (Touches the back of his head and licks his fingers) Oh man! I thought I got it all!

Rachel: (looks puzzled) How... how... ?

Joey: I was making a peanut butter smoothie, right?

smoothie

Rachel: uh-huh

Joey: And I couldn't find this little plastic thing (holds up plastic thing) that goes on top of the blender... and I thought... well... how important can that be, right... ? Turns out very!

blender <美>搅拌机

Rachel: (to herself) Wow... definitely just Drake...

Joey: What?

Rachel: What... how is it going with Drake?

Joey: Oh... I don't think it's going very well...

Rachel: What... that scene I saw was so good!

Joey: Well, I'm feeling really insecure about the one we are shooting tomorrow...

be insecure about 对：无安全感

Rachel: Joey, is this that thing that you do when you say you're bad so I'll give you a compliment?

Joey: A little. Yeah no, I really am worried, you know, I mean I have to make it convincing that I'm in love with Olivia.

convincing adj. 有说服力的 令人信服的

Rachel: So?

Joey: So... I've never played that!

Rachel: Ooh! Honey, it can't be that hard, I mean, you've been in love before?

Joey: Uh... well... just once... with you...

Rachel: Ok... this could be a little awkward... I'm just going to blow past it... well can't you just use that method actor thing where you use your real life memories to help you in your performance?

blow past it 跳过不说

Joey: (looks at her for a moment) What the hell are you talking about? ?

Rachel: (shakes her head) Alright, alright look, just uh... just try to remember how you felt when you were in love, and think about that when you're playing the scene.

Joey: (approvingly) Oh! ok, yeah, I think I can do that. Yeah ok, there's this party scene coming up.. and Olivia and her husband are there and all Drake wants to do is grab her and kiss her, but he can't... And that makes me think about all those times when I wanted to grab you and kiss you, but you didn't know so I would just pretend everything was cool, but really, it was killing me.

approvingly adv. 赞许地

Rachel: (looks touched) Joey, you never.. you never talked about that before...

Joey: Well.. hey, you know what else I could use? There's a scene where Drake sneaks into Olivia's bedroom, and she doesn't know he's there - which never happened with us! And he knows he shouldn't be there, but he just wants to look at her... you know? (In a romantic voice) And I remember all those mornings before you even put on your make-up, when I would think to myself, my God, she... is... beautiful... (Rachel looks very moved) and it hurts so much, cuz I knew I could never tell you (pauses, while looking at her with sentiment) but it was worth it just to be there looking at you.

(Joey and Rachel continue to look at each other in silence for a while) in silence adv. 沉默地

Joey: (excited) Thanks dude!!! This is GREAT!!! (leaves Rachel very touched on the couch and goes into his room)

tampon n. (妇女) 月经棉塞
