Ross: Let's give it a shot.

Monica: Okay. Man, I have not made this many cookies since I was in the ninth grade.

Phoebe: Oh, what was that for? Like a bake sale?

A bake sale is a fundraising(adj. 筹款的) activity where baked goods such as doughnuts, cupcakes[n. <美>(波纹)纸托蛋糕] and cookies, sometimes along with ethnic baked goods, are sold. Bake sales are usually held by small, non-profit organizations, such as clubs, school groups and charitable organizations(n. 慈善组织). Bake sales are often set up around an area of pedestrian(adj. 步行的 人行道的) traffic, such as outside a grocery store or at a busy intersection(n. 十字路口) near a mall. A major selling point of bake sales is the supposed and often advertised homemade(adj. 自制的) nature of the goods being offered, but with the proliferation(n. 激增) of prepared[adj. (食物等)经过调制的] cookie dough and boxed muffins and cupcakes, this claim has become increasingly dubious(adj. 含糊的). In the United Kingdom the 'bake sale' is known as a 'cake stall' although pies, biscuits and so forth are also available n. 烘焙糕饼义卖

starboard n. 右舷

Joey: Huh?

Rachel: (yelling) Just sit over there!! (Points to the port side.)

Joey: (hurrying over) Okay! Okay, you're yelling again! See that?

Rachel: No! No-no, no-no-no, very quiet, said with love, no yelling.

Joey: Oh, y-know what? Since I'm here, I think I'm gonna have me a little beer on the port side. (Grabs and opens one.) See what I did there?

Rachel: Okay Joey, we're luffing a little bit, so could you tighten up the cunningham? (The mainsail has started to flap in the wind and has stopped working efficiently; she wants him to tighten it so that it starts working again.)

luff v. 逆风航行/tighten up v. 拉紧 使更牢固/In sailing, a cunningham or cunningham's eye is a type of downhaul(n. 收帆索) used on a Bermuda[n. 百慕大群岛(北大西洋西部群岛)] rigged(adj. 装配帆的) sailboat to change the shape of a sail. It is named after its inventor, Briggs Swift Cunningham II, a victorious(adj. 胜利的) America Cup skipper(n. 船长), who was a yacht builder and sailor, as well as being a racecar enthusiast, driver, team owner, and racecar owner and builder. The yacht, Columbia, was led to victory by Cunningham in the America Cup competition of 1958. Briggs was inducted into the America Cup Hall of Fame in 1993. He is also in the international and American motorsports halls of fame and when innovating devices for yachting, called on the specialized talents of automobile racing friends to solve problems such as metal stress and selection. The cunningham differs from a typical downhaul in the way that it attaches to the sail(n. 帆). The system usually consists of a line which is secured at one end to the mast(n. 桅杆) or boom(n. 帆的下桁) below the foot of the mainsail. It is then passed through a cringle(n. 索眼) in the luff(n. 船首弯曲部) of the sail near the foot, but above the tack[n. (帆的)上下角索], and then led down on the other side to a fitting on the mast or boom or on deck. The tension in the luff of the sail is adjusted using a combination of the halyard[n. (旗帆等的)升降索] and the cunningham (where fitted). The primary advantage of adjusting the cunningham is the speed and ease with which the luff(n. 转舵) tension can be changed while sailing or racing. By hauling or easing the line, the tension in the luff can be changed, thereby shifting the point of maximum draft of the sail forward or aft(adv. 在船尾), optimizing sail shape | and therefore | performance. It is a fine control which is used more frequently on racing sailboats than on cruising or day-sailing boats.

Joey: Uh, wow, you just said a bunch of stuff I didn't know there.

Rachel: Joey, come on! We just went over this! (She does it instead.)

Joey: Oh, y'know, when we did that was when that bird was flying overhead with the fish in his mouth. Did you see it? It was gross!

Rachel: (angrily) No! All right?! I did not see the bird! I did not see the fish! I did not see the piece of Styrofoam that was shaped like Mike Tyson! I did not, because I was trying to teach you how to sail a boat! Which obviously is an impossible thing to do!

Styrofoam n. 聚苯乙烯泡沫塑料/Mike Tyson 乔伊驾船时老分心 '沾染了老爸在船上坏脾气的瑞秋气急败坏 : '我没有看见什么鸟 '我没有看见什么鱼 '我也没有看见那块和麦克·泰森身 材差不多的泡沫塑料。我没有看见，因为我在教你如何驾船！”——麦克·泰森就是世界前拳王，当时正红火着呢/Michael Gerard Tyson (born June 30, 1966) is a former American world heavyweight boxing champion and is the youngest man to have won a world heavyweight title. During his prime in the late 1980s and early 1990s, Tyson was one of the most recognizable(adj. 知名的 妇孺皆知的) athletes in the world. Nicknamed "Iron Mike Tyson," "Kid Dynamite(n. 炸药)" and "The Baddest Man on the Planet," Tyson adopted the Muslim name Malik Abdul Aziz, after his conversion to Islam while in prison for his rape conviction. For his behavior both in and out of the ring(n. 拳击场), ESPN has ranked Tyson as the #1 Most Outrageous(adj. 残暴的) Character in modern sports history by both experts panel(n. 专家团 专家小组) selection and internet poll. Trained by Hall of Fame trainer Cus D'Amato early in his career, Tyson unified the belts in the splintered(adj. 分裂的) heavyweight division in the late 1980s and won many of his fights by knockout(n. 击倒). Tyson knocked out his first 19 professional opponents within six rounds, stopping 12 of them in the first round. He reigned(v. 统治) as undisputed(adj. 无可置疑的) heavyweight champion for over two years before losing in a shocking upset to Buster Douglas in 1990. He was convicted of raping a beauty pageant(n. 盛装游行 选美比赛) contestant in 1992, and after being released from prison in 1995, he engaged in a series of comeback fights before losing in another upset(n. 意外的失败), this time to Evander Holyfield. In 1997, his rematch with Holyfield ended when Tyson bit off a portion of Holyfield's ear in retaliation(n. 报复) for what he perceived as purposeful headbutts[n. (故意)用头去撞...的腹部]. He fought for a championship again at the age of 35, losing by knockout to Lennox Lewis in 2002. After losing two consecutive bouts(n. 较量) to journeymen, Tyson retired from competitive boxing in 2005. He has since engaged in a series of exhibition bouts in a tour across the US to pay off(v. 还清债务) his numerous debts; despite making over US$30 million in several fights and $300 million in his career, Tyson declared bankruptcy(n. 破产) in 2003.

Ross: Looking up?

Phoebe: Oh yeah | No, she was really nice to me, but she's in hell for sure.

Monica: Well, I've tried everything. I give up. I guess I'm not gonna be the mom who makes the world's best chocolate chip cookies. I do make the best duck confit with broccoli raab. Kids love that right.

broccoli n. 椰菜 球花甘蓝/confit<烹俚>Meat, such as duck, that has been salted and then cooked and preserved in its own fat/duck confit 是一种脆皮的鸭肉烹饪菜式/Duck confit (French: confit de canard) is a French dish made with duck legs. While it is made across France, it is seen as a specialty of Gascony. The confit is prepared in a centuries-old process of preservation that consists of salting (with garlic and spices) a piece of meat (generally goose, duck, or pork) and then cooking it in its own fat or broth. Usually the meat is placed in a crock or pot, covered and poached or braised for up to nine hours in its own fat at a temperature not exceeding 250 degrees Fahrenheit/120 degrees Celsius. The cooking fat acts as both a seal and preservative and results in a very rich taste. Confit can be refrigerated up to 6 months.

Rapini (also known as Broccoli Rabe (or Raab), Broccoletti, Broccoli di Rape, Cime di Rapa, and Grelas) is a common vegetable in Chinese and Italian cuisine. The plant has various scientific classification designations(n. 科学分类术语), including Brassica rapa ruvo, Brassica rapa rapifera, Brassica ruvo, Brassica campestris ruvo, and Brassica rapa rapa (a name normally assigned to the turnip[n. 芜菁甘蓝]). Rapini has many spiked(adj. 有穗的) leaves that surround a green bud which looks very similar to a small head of broccoli. There may be small yellow flowers blooming from the buds, which are edible. The flavor of rapini has been described as nutty, bitter, pungent(adj. 辛辣的), and "an acquired taste(n. 嗜好)". The Italian cultivar(n. 培育植物) is similar to, but much more bitter than, the Chinese. However the Chinese cultivar(n. 栽培变种) is of a lighter green colour, not at all bitter or pungent, and more tender 花菜
